Revealed at the start of 2018 as part of adidas' Spring/Summer 2018 collection, the adidas Deerupt Blue Red is pretty much as unique as it gets. Dressed in a Sonic the Hedgehog inspired colourway, the crep features an ultra clean mesh upper which features a fishnet pattern that wraps effortlessly around sneaker.

The midsole, whilst not made from adidas' iconic Boost technology, is constructed from a soft and plush foam which is extremely comfortable and versatile, and around the heel portion, a suede heel tab is present, adorned with adidas' Trefoil motif printed on top. To round off the design of the sneaker, a distinct rubber outsole sits down below for added durability and grip.

Taking some of adidas' classic '70s running features and combining them with a clean and modern design, the adidas Deerupt Blue Red is the perfect pair of kicks to rock this summer! Available for both men and women, we recommend you go true to size for the best fit possible!

The adidas Deerupt Blue Red is arriving alongside several other distinct colourways, so be sure to hit that bell icon above for release reminders on the run up to launch, as well as an email alert as soon as these go live!
